

Light of the World

Words and Music by Kyle Hancharick and Douglas Q. Hutchings

Well in the snowfall in the dead of the day
I wanna go out, bow down and pray,
I say, "Dear God, when the snowing's done,
Show me the Light of the world."

And when the rain comes and the sky turns gray
I wanna step out until it goes away,
I say, "Dear God, when the raining's done,
Show me the Light of the world."

When the Darkness closes in (Show me the Light)
When I'm caught up in my sin (Show me the Light)
When the heat goes underneath my skin,
Show me the Light of the world

In the wheat field with no one around,
And I'm a' reaping like the rest in town,
I say, "Dear God when the working's done,
Show me the Light of the world."

When the Darkness closes in (Show me the Light)
When I'm caught up in my sin (Show me the Light)
When the heat goes underneath my skin,
Show me the Light of the world

And when the day goes and I'm lying awake
And I'm waiting to meet another day,
I pray "Dear Lord when the morning comes,
Show me the Light of the world."
